Selfie en burqa sur Instagram : le top model britannique Lily Cole présente ses excuses

19/08/2021 à 13h53

Le top model britannique convient que son post sur Instagram était inadéquat alors que les talibans viennent de reprendre l'Afghanistan.

Plusieurs personnalités ont condamné la désinvolture Lily Cole qui, ironie du sort, se manifestait au moment même où l'Afghanistan tombait de nouveau aux mains des talibans. Ce régime contraint les femmes à porter cet habit bleu dissimulant entièrement le corps. C'est un symbole d'oppression. Afin de se faire pardonner, la Britannique a déclaré qu'elle était à la recherche d'organisations qui aident les femmes sur le terrain afin de leur apporter son soutien.

How you can help Afghanistan
Afghans need all the help we can give.

Afghanistan is in Taliban hands, and the country is in a state of terror and chaos.
Foreign embassies are being evacuated, and images from Kabul airport show scenes of panic. People are storming military cargo, filling up planes with more passengers than they can carry, and even clinging onto airplanes in desperate,

THIS WEEK I POSTED AN OLD PHOTO OF ME WEARING A BURQA LOANED TO ME BY A FRIEND. AS SHE POINTED OUT I WAS UNDERMINING IT'S ORIGINAL PURPOSE BY WEARING IT WITH MY FACE EXPOSED, BUT I UNDERSTAND WHY THE IMAGE HAS UPSET PEOPLE AND WANT TO SINCERELY APOLOGISE FOR ANY OFFENCE CAUSED.
I HADN'T READ THE NEWS AT THE TIME I POSTED SO IT WAS INCREDIBLE ILL TIMED (THANK YOU FOR POINTING THAT OUT TO ME).
MY HEART BREAKS READING ABOUT WHAT IS HAPPENING IN AFGHANISTAN AT THE MOMENT, AND IN LOOKING FOR ORGANISATIONS HELPING WOMEN ON THE GROUND I CAN SUPPORT, I THOUGHT I WOULD SHARE SOME I FOUND / DONATED TO.
