Selon Josep Borell, le chef de la diplomatie européenne, “une partie de l’avenir de l’Europe se jouera sur le continent africain”

25/05/2023 à 15h38

> Today, we celebrate the 60th anniversary of the Organisation of African Unity.
>
> Much progress has been achieved since 1963, and the EU continues to stand by the @_AfricanUnion to achieve its goals.
>
> Congratulations on #AfricaDay2023! #AUEU pic.twitter.com/qxtcN6iTEX
>
> — Josep Borrell Fontelles (@JosepBorrellF) May 25, 2023

Célébration de la Journée de l’Afrique par la Commission européenne :

> The #AfricaEU partnership is one of our priorities. Through #GlobalGateway, the EU 🇪🇺 is supporting Africa for socio-economic, green & digital transformation.
>
> Learn more about the EU-Africa flagship projects for 2023🇪🇺 https://t.co/4OzvGcoRws#AfricaDay2023 @_AfricanUnion pic.twitter.com/eniDJPG0Pr
>
> — EU International Partnerships 🇪🇺 (@EU_Partnerships) May 25, 2023

> Africa is a diverse continent full of beauty and culture.
>
> When I think of Africa, I think of all the warm, unforgettable welcomes I have gotten there.
>
> Africa’s greatest asset is its youth. Their optimism and entrepreneurial spirit never cease to amaze me.
>
> Happy #AfricaDay! 🌍 pic.twitter.com/HmrjjgOOyr
>
> — Jutta Urpilainen (@JuttaUrpilainen) May 25, 2023

En lien :

> Josep Borrell, chef de la diplomatie européenne, sur l’immigration : “L’hiver démographique de l’Europe est comblé par des apports du reste du monde”