États-Unis : la police de New York célèbre la Journée mondiale du hijab, reconnaissant « la diversité qui enrichit la ville »

02/02/2024 à 10h38

Today, the NYPD celebrates World Hijab Day, recognizing the diversity that enriches our city.

Embracing the differences that make us stronger as a community is a cornerstone of our commitment to creating a safe and welcoming environment for all.

Happy World Hijab Day! pic.twitter.com/BSx2UqHDWm

— NYPD Community Affairs (@NYPDCommAffairs) February 1, 2024

Members of the community and police officers gathered at Police Headquarters to observe World Hijab Day. The event aimed to promote religious tolerance, cultural understanding and raise awareness about the significance of the traditional headcover for Muslim women. pic.twitter.com/tVotOSPwsW

— NYPD NEWS (@NYPDnews) February 2, 2024